

CENSOR NEEDED TO BLUE-PENCIL OFFICIAL CENSOR

Bullard Assails Baker and Daniels, Violating Own Rule
About Being Specific.

(Special From a Staff Correspondent of The Evening World.)

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Censorship seems to be needed in the Government's own Committee on Public Information more than on newspapers. The first candidate appears to be Arthur Bullard, who is connected with the newly created Censorship and Information Bureau, in charge of its foreign department.

The Committee on Public Information consists of Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of War Baker, Secretary of the Navy Daniels and George Creel, civilian chairman. In its promulgated regulations, limitations are placed on criticism of public officials and methods as follows:

"It is suggested and urged as an obligation of patriotism that the vicious and abusive be avoided in opinion and that criticism shall be specific and of a constructive character."

"Those who imperil national solidarity by attack upon men and measures should be at infinite pains to establish their facts and to test their motives. In this day of high emotionalism and mental confusion, the printed word has immeasurable power and the term traitor is not too harsh in application to the publisher, editor or writer who wields this power without full and even solemn recognition of responsibilities."

PRACTICALLY DEMANDS REMOVAL OF TWO SECRETARIES.

A syndicated series of articles is appearing in certain newspapers, signed by Mr. Bullard and further endorsed "Copyright MacMillan Company, 1917, by Otis F. Wood." Here is what the author, who now is employed by the Government, printed yesterday about two of his superiors, Secretaries Baker and Daniels, practically recommending their removal:

"If the Administration is to rally to it a united Nation, it is equally necessary to have a reorganization of the Executive branch of the Government."

"The President could increase his hold on public opinion if he dispensed with his less able secretaries and replaced them by Republicans of more renowned ability."

"Take Mr. Daniels as one example. His fitness as chief of the navy is seriously questioned. And although it is quite possible that the attacks upon him have been unfounded, public confidence in him has been undermined. A man like Hoover might do no better as Secretary of the Navy than Daniels, but the change would fortify public opinion."

"Personal or partisan loyalties are out of place. We want the President surrounded by men we know and trust. We would be comforted to see Goethals as Secretary of War, not that we have anything against Baker, but because we know Goethals better."

Mr. Bullard then sweeps wider in his criticism, taking in not merely the whole Administration of the United States Government, but attacking the British Government. He says:

THEN HE ATTACKS THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

"We have chosen the President and Congress for a term of years. It is bad enough to have them wrangle in the piping times of peace. They will very quickly throw public opinion into disarray and render efficient mobilization impossible if they do not at once work out an organization which will run smoothly."

"To many British democrats the Coalition Cabinet and more recently the Lloyd George reorganization has seemed a triumph for the reaction. For although there is good reason to believe that the British Empire—like the Russian—will emerge from the war more liberal than ever before, still the present trend toward Toryism is disquieting."

When attention of the Chief Censor of the Committee on Public Information was called to Mr. Bullard's article, he said:

"The article was written by Mr. Bullard before war was declared, as part of a series entitled 'Mobilizing America.' It probably represented his opinions at the time; but many men have changed their opinions since the war began and have rallied to support of the Government."

FIVE PTOMAINE VICTIMS.

Vernance and Their Children Stricken After Eating Pork.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vernance of No. 440 East Seventy-fifth Street and their three sons, aged four, eleven and fifteen, are in Bellevue Hospital suffering with ptomaine poisoning. The parents reported that the family had eaten pork last night and portions of the meat have been taken by the hospital authorities for examination.

BLOOMINGTONDALES',
59TH ST. & 3D AVE.,
NEW YORK, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

Please send me, without obligation on my part, full information regarding your great

Queensboro

Just a few provincial hamlets a tedious sojourn it must have been over horse car and old "Sidehiller" to New York.

Although the towns grew, it was the Queensboro Bridge that proved the impetus, in a great influx of population, which made Queens a Borough of contented people, beautiful country places and great factories—only 10 minutes from Bloomingdale.

We did business before the bridge was built, too—for 40 years. But it was the Queensboro—a great extent—that made necessary the erection of a new fireproof building which almost completes a square city block.

Only your consistent trading in our store has made this development and growth possible, and for this reason do we celebrate the Queensboro Sale. We do hope you will participate in the exceptional values offered—ALL NEW YORKERS.
